riding it, right behind them closely, pulled into Balboa Peninsula Point and I thought that was kind of fishy. The motorcycle guy had a back pack that looked very stuffed with something. My thoughts, again with the recent girls stealing cars in the neighborhood and a suspicious motorcycle right behind them. I went up to them and told them the beach was closed and one of the girls said to me, "OH we are looking for my Aunt's house." I followed them all out of the area and they all pulled into the 7/11 on Balboa. I decided to call the police to see what they felt. I did not confront them at 7/11, I let the police show up and handle it. Not sure of the outcome. They took my phone number over the phone and said if we need you for anything we will call you. To me, I picture the girls walking around neighborhoods, calling the guy on the motorcycle on the phone to come and hotwire the cars and the girls take off with them. That's my opinion only. Girls car white scion versa license plate 6NEA617 and the motorcycle 19P8222 for future reference. No other issues to report.

10:00pm: In this hour, I cleared out the Bay Beach Pier and the Beach. At this time, a couple walked up to me while I was closing down the pier and said two Hispanic men on the jetty way out towards the end of the jetty scared the heck out of her "Emily". Apparently, while Emily and her husband were fishing, these two males started out 40 ft. away from them. As the husband moved around the jetty away from his wife these two guys kept creeping closer and closer to Emily until they were 2 ft away from her. Well, she was really scared and thought she was going to get attacked, so they left the jetty's and found me at the pier. So, with these two men still on the jetty's I decided to call the police and report it. They basically said they couldn't do anything since they really didn't do anything and they may or may not still be around. Well, while all of us were standing next to jetty park, one of the guys walked up and Emily and her husband recognized him. I asked the man if he had been stalking the couple out on the Jetty's and of course he said "No". He definitely seemed intoxicated, While, I was talking to him the husband called the police and they came and talked with the guy. He seemed a little intoxicated and all that came out of it was a report and no charges filed because he actually didn't attack anyone. But, you can tell Emily was really scared, she was shaking while she told the story. Everyone left and the police have his name and info.. I then posted up at the Jetty and cleared out the Beach. No other issues to report. I continued to let beach goers know that the beach was now closed. Everyone was cooperative and turned around and left without incident.

Shift: 7pm to 3am

S/o Sonny Baca on duty

7:00pm: I began my shift by patrolling E. Ocean Blvd and right away I noticed a lady living at 1545 E. OCEAN Blvd. arguing with two young ladies. I exited my patrol car to see what the trouble was. Apparently, the girls were accusing the lady of having their car towed or stolen because they were parked out in front of her house. The Newport Beach police showed up and took down the information and all of us were thinking, maybe they are on the wrong street. I proceeded to Miramar Dr. to look for their vehicle. Sure enough they were on the wrong street. One of their friends apologized to the Lady at 1545 Ocean and the girls left Balboa Peninsula. I continued to patrol the entire Community without further incidents.

8:00pm: In this hour, I patrolled all the streets and alleyways including at 8:50pm securing the Clubhouse completely. I met a private security gentleman who parked his vehicle at the back alleyway near the clubhouse. He was there to keep an eye specifically for his client's house. His name was Aaron Elliot. He was a very nice gentleman and said, it is very rare we are here we usually watch his house in Hollywood. No further issues to report.

9:00pm: In this hour, I continued to patrol Balboa Peninsula Point and noticed at 9:40pm that a trunk was left open on Ocean Blvd. I knocked on the door at 1505 Ocean Blvd and the young lady said, yes thank you letting us know. I continued to patrol with no problems to report.

A gentleman by the name of Jeff walked up to me and thanked me for our company doing a great job and securing the pier. I then stationed myself at the Jetty and cleared out the beach. Everyone was very nice and cordially exited the beach area. At 10:45pm. I gave everyone at the park first alert for the 11pm park closure. No other issues to report.

Shift: 7am to 3am
S/o Cruz on duty

7:00pm: I began my shift by patrolling all streets and alleyways. I said hello to several resident.

8:00pm: At this hour, I was flagged down by a female resident who told me that a young man had just broke into a white Kia Soul on "M" Street and that she was on hold with the Police. I quickly drove to the location and found a white male approximately 28 years old sitting inside the white Kia Soul wearing only board shorts. I saw broken glass all over the driver side door and on the pavement. I noticed one of his hands had a little bit of blood. I asked him who he was and if he in fact broke into the car? He was calm and admitted to breaking into his mother's car. He told me that he is not a resident here and that the Police had taken his keys from him earlier in the day because he was intoxicated. He apparently had nowhere else to go but to sit inside his mother's car and wait. He showed me his I.D. which matched his mother's registration name. Police showed up shortly there after and took over. Once the police took him away, I took a photo of the car. (See Pic)
